IASB Project A Review of the Conceptual Framework for Financial Reporting

At its September 2014 meeting, EFRAG TEG received an update on the IASB’s tentative decisions in relation to the forthcoming Exposure Draft. No decisions were taken at the meeting.

IASB Project Insurance Contracts

At its September 2014 meeting, EFRAG TEG received an update on the IASB’s July re-deliberations relating to the proposals in the 2013 Exposure Draft. EFRAG TEG also discussed participating contracts in preparation for the meeting of the Accounting Standards Advisory Forum to be held on 26 September 2014.

EFRAG TEG reiterated its position on participating contracts that was formed for the June 2014 Accounting Standards Advisory Forum meeting relating to the shareholder’s share of underlying items, treatment of options and guarantees and the release pattern of the contractual service margin. In addition, EFRAG TEG decided that the objective of reducing accounting mismatches should underlie the approach used to determine the items to be recognised in Other Comprehensive Income. EFRAG TEG tentatively considered that the book yield approach would meet that objective.

IASB Project Leases

At its September 2014 meeting, EFRAG TEG held an educational session on the most recent deliberations of the IASB at their June and July meeting and received an update on the preliminary results of EFRAG’s additional public consultation.

When discussing the IASB’s recent deliberations, EFRAG TEG members explored the presentation of lease liabilities on the balance sheet and whether they should be explicitly identified as financial liabilities.

EFRAG TEG was informed that approximately half of the preparers responding to the public consultation stated that they oppose the project, and they would rather maintain IAS 17 Leases. Of those preparers that expressed a preference, the majority preferred the IASB model over the FASB model.

The public consultation also asked respondents to identify transactions that, in their view, should not qualify as leases and provide a rationale. The analysis of the replies is not yet complete, but there were some common themes around the notion of ‘supplier’s ability to replace’, ‘control of the right to use’ and the requirement to separate lease components in an arrangement that includes assets and services.

IASB Project Rate-regulated Activities

At its September 2014 meeting, EFRAG TEG was provided with a summary of an exercise on the practical application of ‘defined rate regulation’ which was sent to the preparer members of the EFRAG Rate-regulated Activities Working Group. EFRAG TEG also received feedback on user outreach performed during the summer. No decisions were taken at the meeting. Thanks to the input received from its working group, EFRAG TEG is now well equipped to prepare a draft comment letter on the IASB Discussion Paper.
IASB Project Clarifications of Classification and Measurement of Share-based Payment Transactions (Proposed amendments to IFRS 2)

At the September 2014 EFRAG TEG meeting, EFRAG staff provided an update on three narrow-scope amendments to IFRS 2 approved by the IASB at its April and June 2014 meetings. The amendments address: how vesting conditions affect the measurement of a cash-settled award; how a withholding tax requirement affects the classification of an equity-settled award; how to classify an award that could be either settled in equity or cash, based on a future event; and how an entity should account for the replacement of a cash-settled award with an equity-settled award.

EFRAG TEG reiterated its concern that the continuous introduction of piecemeal changes in IFRS 2 to solve narrow issues create additional complexity and does not clarify the basic requirements.
